

Assessment of Development Results: Sierra Leone

The Independent Evaluation Office of the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) conducted a country level evaluation, an Assessment of Development Results (ADR) in Sierra Leone in 2013. It examined the Sierra Leone country programme over the 2008-2012. The ADR is an independent evaluation aimed at capturing and demonstrating evaluative evidence of UNDPs contribution to development results and its strategic positioning in the country. This is the first ADR conducted in Sierra Leone, which was carried out with support of the Government of Sierra Leone (GoSL), various other national stakeholders, and the UNDP Sierra Leone country office and Regional Bureau of Africa (RBA).
