

Excerpt from The Trial and Acquittal of John the Baptist: The Apostles, and Evangelists, Under the Charge of Dipping and Plunging Persons Under Water, in the Official Acts of Their Respective Administrations This little book is not written for the learned, the critic, or the aged Doctor of Divinity; nor is it written for the great mass of the inferior classes, who have little time and less capacity for close thinking, or investigation. It is rather intended for the middle class of young persons, especially young clergymen, who feel a deeper interest in the subject, and desire some small manual on a theme of great interest and frequent occurrence. A number of the Authors friends have long desired, and requested, something of the kind at his hands before the close of his ministerial life. The forensic, or juridical form, is chosen for the sake of variety. Amid such an endless catalogue of books on this subject, it was thought that one more might come forth in a costume somewhat different, so far as the author knows, from the rest, hoping, thereby, it might be the more attractive.
