

Chronicles of the Devizes, Being a History of the Castle, Parks and Borough of That Name: With Notices Statistical, Parliamentary, Ecclesiastic, and Biographical (Classic Reprint)

The object and character of a work bearing the title of the present must be so obvious to all, that preface seems hardly necessary except for the purpose of saying a few words on the sources of information, and paying that just tribute of respect which is due to the gentlemen who have assisted me in the undertaking. The history of this Country during the middle ages has already derived much elucidation from the publishing of the Tower-Records; and although it will remain comparatively defective till that publication is complete, yet to have deferred the history of Devizes till such a doubtful period should arrive, would have been a virtual relinquishing of the task. The observations in the municipal department are taken in a great measure from the reports lately published by Government. With regard to such as are not, I think it only necessary to say that they have been drawn up with considerable care, and with an anxious desire to offend no living man. A great deal has been written about Wiltshire and its antiquities, but I cannot help thinking that no writer has so scientifically studied the moral influence which its inhabitants and principal families have ever exercised in the revolutions of the state. With this view, much might have been added and many names introduced in the present work, with reference to the great civil wars: but I willingly leave this point to be more ably discussed by Mr. Hatcher, in his forthcoming work on Salisbury. To this gentleman I am indebted for the whole of the documents relative to the disposal of the Castle under Bishop Joceline's prelate. The other gentlemen who have supplied me with valuable materials are the Rev. Edward James Phipps, Mr. Paul Anstie, Mr. George Anstie, and Mr. T. B. Smith, of Devizes and Mr. Britton of London.
