

Hitler As Military Commander

Was Hitler the greatest strategic genius of all time as Nazi propaganda would have us believe, or a facile amateur in military affairs? Why was the startling success of his campaigns in Poland and France followed by the blundering mistakes in Russia, Tunis and Normandy? Might the German General Staff have won the war without Hitlers continual disastrous interference? John Strawson answers these and other questions by showing how Hitlers insatiable preoccupation with war and conquest was translated into reality. While the willpower behind the revitalized German army was Hitlers the author examines the Fuhrers eccentric use of the most formidable war machine the world had ever seen. This lucid assessment is brought alive by the accounts of those who served Hitler both on his staff and as field commanders. The Western Front
