

Some Notable Altars in the Church of England and the American Episcopal Church (Classic Reprint)

Excerpt from Some Notable Altars in the Church of England and the American Episcopal Church By reason of a cultivation of ecclesiastical adornment through centuries of experience, wealth, and devotion, the Cathedrals and parish Churches of England have attained a high place in the world of sacred art. The American Episcopal Church has given only through the past one hundred years any attention to Church enrichment and her limitations have been many. Notwithstanding this, her art creations have not been without merit and her Church architects have taken a foremost place. The descriptive text has been drawn from every available source, such as the reports of architects, builders, Vicars, and Rectors. Several visits to England helped by the way of study and observation. A few examples have been given of unrestored English Screens as showing the devastation wrought by vandal hands at the Reformation. It is a pleasure to note in the restored work that the prejudice against the Crucifix as the emblem of our salvation is passing away. The late Most Rev. Frederick Temple, D.D., the Primate of England, once said: I fail to understand how it can be considered compatible with the principles of the Reformation to draw nice distinctions between the figure of Our Lord crucified and the figure of Our Lord ascending, and to say that one tends to idolatry and the other not. Such subtle ties savor of Rabbinical distinctions. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
