Not illustrated. 1877 edition. Excerpt: ...S., when your agreeable letter came in. It is a very flattering account that you give of the reception which my book met with at Caversham and your lodgings. There is reason to wish that the work may find many more such candid readers: if not, what is to become of the Editors, who have spared no expense in getting it up, and who have printed off a large impression? I am now reading every day yr friend Dr. Townsons discourses, which give me, as you engaged that they would, singular satisfaction: there is an acumen, and nicety of critical discernment, not often to be met with. In his sermon, p. 282, I am particularly charmed with the authors remarks upon the use Xt made of his parables, and the reasons why they were so nicely adapted to the taste of his hearers! We have just heard that Miss and Reb. Chase were on the wing for India. Their motive must be, no doubt, a view of settling in the married state. Celibacy has something in it so abhorrent to the sex, that they will flie from pole to pole to The reference is to Dr. Townsons Discourses on the Four Gospels, which were at that time much celebrated. Dr. Townson was a Fellow of Magdalen College, Oxford, and Rector of Malpas, in Cheshire, Mr. Churtons native place. He became Archdeacon of Richmond, and died in 1792.--T. B. VOL. II. P avoid it. However, let their fate be what it may, I wish them happy. Pray bring what you transcribe respecting the Kopcovrj and eXtoW; some use may possibly be made of it. I rejoice to hear that Dr. Chandler is well. I most readily condole with you on the sad calamity that has befallen at Windsor; and pray to God that He will be pleased speedily to restore the King to a right use of his faculties. Should the nation be long deprived of one of its states,...
